

New eyes for the new world.

Do you relate? Society continues to marginalize churches and its message of hope in Jesus Christ. At one time, churches were at the center of our cities and communities. More and more, we find ourselves on the fringes and viewed as irrelevant. Henry Cloud said, “Great leaders don’t let their environments change them into helpless thinkers.” Easy to say but how do you do it? How do you find a safe place to even have the conversation?

I am seeking to:

Build curiosity about what God is doing in my life, my neighbors’ lives, in my community, and in my world.

Learn what it means to be a “missional” leader in today’s cultural context.

Discover and articulate vision

Navigate change for the sake of the mission

Create teams of people for that mission

Courageously and gently lead

Unlock the missional DNA that is already present in you as we address key questions together:

- What does it look like for you to experience joy in joining what God is already doing?
- What in your life would you invite others to imitate for the sake of God’s Kingdom?
- Who would you willingly invite to get close enough to you so they could observe “how you follow Jesus”?
- As a ministry, what are you doing well right now that could be leveraged to help you move one step closer to being a missional church? As a Christian pastor and leader, have you depended on sermons and classes to get people to reach out and live on mission when you have not been ready to do it yourself?
